

MICHELLE MEINEKE

SENIOR ASSOCIATE, GULF INTELLIGENCE

Michelle is the Editor at Gulf Intelligence and is responsible for the company's editorial content, including the quarterly Energy Outlook publication, which is distributed throughout the Middle East. Michelle also writes and produces multiple Special Reports that respond immediately to the most pressing – and often unexpected – changes in the global energy industry with high-level analyses and forecasts. Michelle is the author of Gulf Intelligence's White Papers, which provide forward-looking intelligence for energy ministries in the Gulf, as well as some of the world's major energy companies and European embassies. Michelle's expertise includes oil and gas markets, sustainability and education in the Middle East and beyond.

Michelle previously worked for Thomson Reuters in London covering finance in emerging markets and as an energy analyst and correspondent for Argus Media in the Middle East, a global energy pricing agency.

She tweets @michemeineke.

