

VLADIMIR LANGHAMER

MANAGING DIRECTOR, SUPPLY & TRADING, OMV

Vladimir Langhamer is a downstream oil professional and leader with broad experience across crude oil & products trading and sales, crude & feedstock optimization, risk management and operations. Starting his career in 2006 with OMV. Vladimir has experience with developing a new LP based crude scheduling solution, has opened new sales channels for excess production of white and heavy products. Managing director of OMV's trading office in Switzerland he has been leading teams of operations, risk, back office and finance professionals. After his return to Vienna, he has been managing a team tasked with optimization of crude & feedstock supply for OMV western refineries in Austria and Germany, connected inventory and price risk management, origination and emissions hedging. For the past 3 years Vladimir has transferred to London as Trading Director and recently as Managing Director of OMV's oil / oil products trading office in London responsible for all front office, operations, trading market analysis and shipping activities of OMV Group.

