“Oil and gas companies have the resources and market penetration to make a difference in the energy transition – especially in the region’s emerging markets. However, the investment profile of renewable companies is remarkably different. Renewables are a lower-yield investment, longer-term, and more secure.”

Jeremy Crane
CEO & Founder, Yellow Door Energy

Each country, company, or investor is in a different situation. Therefore, each actor must look at their position in the journey through three lenses:

1. LOCATION

– Where are they located geographically?

2. RESOURCES

– What resources do they have to hand, historically, and moving forward?

3. CONSTITUENTS

– What are the people demanding, and what do they need?
